El Croquis 151: Sou Fujimoto 2003-2010
El Croquis, El Escorial 2010
ISBN 978 84 88386 61 8
€ 58.15 — Idea Code 10440
Timely and vital monograph on the work of Sou Fujimoto, featuring 19 stellar projects, plus an expansive interview with Ryue Nishizawa. Fujimoto established his own practice in 2000, initially pioneering his concept of ‘weak architecture’; the balancing of disparate elements to make ‘an order that incorporates uncertainty’. But there is nothing uncertain about Fujimoto’s current designs. His clean, graceful and harmonious projects represent the leading edge in Japanese architecture. 216 p, ills colour & bw, 25 x 34 cm, pb, Spanish/English

El Croquis 152-153: Herzog & De Meuron
El Croquis, El Escorial 2010
ISBN 978 84 88386 62 5
€ 74.30 — Idea Code 11001
Double issue featuring the works and projects that Herzog & De Meuron produced in the years 2005-2010. The VitraHaus is extensively documented, as well as works like the TEA, Tenerife Espacio de las Artes, the CaixaForum in Madrid, the transformation of the Tate Modern in London, the Elbphilharmonie Hamburg and the National Stadium for the 2008 Olympic Games in Beijing. With an introduction and an interview with the architects by Jean-François Chevrier. 380 p, ills colour & bw, 25 x 34 cm, pb, Spanish/English

El Croquis 154: Aires Mateus 2002-2011
El Croquis, El Escorial 2011
ISBN 978 84 88386 63 2
€ 58.15 — Idea Code 11085
This issue focuses on the office of the Manuel and Francisco Aires Mateus brothers. 24 projects have been collected including the Sines Cultural Centre, the Santa Maria Lighthouse Museum, the Lisbon Central Library and Municipal Archive, a Multipurpose Building in Dubai, the Parque de los Cuentos Museum, the Mar de Oriente Shops and Office Building. Also includes Voids, an installation for the Venice Biennale 2010. Interview with Aires Mateus by Ricardo Carhalvo and an essay by Juan Antonio Cortés. 264 p, ills colour & bw, 25 x 34 cm, pb, Spanish/English
This is Hybrid
a+t publishers, Vitoria-Gasteiz 2011
ISBN 978 84 614 6452 4
€ 19.00 — Idea Code 11057
Following years of research, a+t publishers present the first theoretical-practical book on hybrid buildings. Taking its inspiration from the four issues of a+t magazine’s Hybrid series, it looks at theories and projects which have had the greatest historical significance. Steven Holl wrote an introduction where he suggests the path which hybrid typologies should take towards the creation of new urban spaces.

Compact City Extended
010, Rotterdam 2011
ISBN 978 90 6450 747 2
€ 29.50 — Idea Code 11116
There has been a Dutch policy on the compact city for almost a quarter of a century now. It has been driven by the four major cities in Randstad Holland which, following the economic crises of the 1970s and the policy of clustered dispersal, found themselves confronted with a massive decrease in middle and higher income groups. This collection of texts takes stock of the situation and traces a number of contour lines that suggest ways a compact city policy can be meaningful and effective in today’s setting.

Hans Ibelings — European Architecture since 1890*
SUN, Amsterdam 2011
ISBN 978 90 8506 881 5
€ 34.50 — Idea Code not set
This richly illustrated work provides a survey of the main developments in European architecture from the end of the nineteenth century to the present. It is the first architecture history book that pays considerable attention to the architecture of Central and Eastern Europe. During the era of the Iron Curtain, developments in Eastern Europe were hidden from the eyes of Western Europe. Despite this division, it is still possible to speak of a genuinely ‘European’ architecture.
316 p, ills colour & bw, 17 x 24 cm, pb, English
Profiled in Time Magazine as one of the 21st century’s key innovators, Shigeru Ban’s international reputation is founded not only on architecture but on humanitarian accomplishments as well. In 1995 Ban established the Voluntary Architects’ Network to organize post-disaster aid in the field of construction. The resulting paper houses and bridges, temporary schools, concert halls and museums, are now globally famous and influential.

In 2009, Junya Ishigami’s workshop design for the Kanagawa Institute of Technology won Japan’s top architecture award: the Architectural Institute of Japan Prize. This book offers more proof of Ishigami’s precocious talent. Plans, designs, photographs, models and writings from various projects illustrate Ishigami’s stated aim to “embody in architecture that which has never been embodied before”.

Recent works of the offices of SANAA, Kazuyo Sejima and Ryue Nishizawa. Works include the Teshima Art Museum, the Rolex Learning Center in Lausanne, a flower garden in Taipei, the Okurayama housing complex in Yokohama, the Vitra Factory Building in Weil am Rhein, the Serpentine Gallery Pavilion in London, a spatial design for Comme des Garçons in Tokyo and more. Includes an essay by Ryue Nishizawa.
Jensen & Skodvin Architects
Equal Books, Seoul 2010
ISBN 978 89 962904 83
€ 55.00 — Idea Code 11025
The Norwegian Jensen & Skodvin’s practice, founded in 1995, was awarded the Grosch Medal, the first since Sverre Fehn, representing a shift to a new generation of important Norwegian architects. While their architectural work has a timeless quality, their best work is regarded internationally as an extension of “The Nordic Tradition”, confirming Jensen and Skodvin’s position as important representatives of this generational change. 330 p, ills colour & bw, 24 x 35 cm, pb, Korean/English

Wiel Arets — Stills
010, Rotterdam 2010
ISBN 978 90 6450 764 9
€ 34.50 — Idea Code 10628
‘Stills’ is about the power of thought in architecture by renowned Dutch architect Wiel Arets. Arets believes that research and education are an intrinsic part of being an architect. The development of Arets’ ideas is shown in their multitude of thought and action. Architect Wiel Arets speaks, but also enters into a dialogue with others, while his work is critically analysed. 632 p, ills colour & bw, 17 x 24 cm, pb, English

BIG Bjarke Ingels Group
Archilife, Seoul 2010
ISBN 978 89 964508 19
€ 110.00 — Idea Code 10567
BIG is perhaps the first Danish architectural office to be truly ‘glocal’ in the sense of both being anchored in Copenhagen and clearly rooted in a particular cultural and political context — and at the same time being the most globally acting architectural office in Denmark. They may be regarded as one of the first real successful exponents of a new post-national identity operating within a new set of blurred cultural boundaries. 356 p, ills colour & bw, 26 x 30 cm, hb, English
Randall Stout — Design Peak 06
Equal Books, Seoul 2010
ISBN 978 8996 290476
€ 49.50 — Idea Code 10505
Large-scale monograph in the Design Peak series profiling the work of Randall Stout Architects, the award-winning architecture and urban design firm, based in the USA, whose project types include museums, industrial, recreational and commercial facilities. Photographs, plans, and texts illustrate such projects as the Hunter Museum of American Art (Chattanooga), Dockweiler Beach Youth Center (LA), and 19 other designs in North America and Europe.

Re-visiting Re-inventing Buro II*
SUN, Amsterdam 2011
ISBN 978 94 61053 37 4
€ 39.50 — Idea Code not set
‘Re-visiting Re-inventing Buro II’ is a monograph on the work of the Belgian architecture firm Buro II, and celebrates the 30th anniversary of the firm. Buro II has a multidisciplinary approach towards design; in every project it aims to keep a balance between the dream of the commissioner, the social and technical value, and the economic feasibility.

A GUIDE TO AMSTERDAM
Archis, Amsterdam 2011
ISBN 978 90 77966 55 6
€ 19.50 — Idea Code not set
The alter-guide to Amsterdam will explore the city limits of freedom in this anxious European capital. How liberal is the city? And how have the highly contested and conquered rights for women, homosexuals, housing, free speech, expression and sexual freedoms been shaped by the current political climate? The guide provides maps, tours, stories, essays and photos from over 40 contributors.

AESTHETICS OF SUSTAINABLE ARCHITECTURE
O10, Rotterdam 2011
ISBN 978 90 6450 752 6
€ 29.50 — Idea Code not set
This book deals with the aesthetic potentials of sustainable architecture and its practice. In contrast to the mechanistic model, the book attempts to open a new area of scholarship and debate on sustainability in the design and production of architecture. It traces and underscores how the consideration of environment and sustainability is connected to aesthetic propositions in architecture.

Valentin Bearth, Andrea Deplazes and partner Daniel Ladner have been working collectively from Chur in Switzerland since 1988. All three have held teaching posts at ETH Zurich and the Academy of Architecture in Mendrisio. Their work as planners and teachers is clear in its approach, while a rigorous planning process accompanies an experimental attitude to materials and structural solutions.

226 p, ills colour & bw, 24 x 34 cm, pb, Portuguese/English

Laboratory buildings are usually technoid-industrial in character and rarely have an aesthetic aspect of high rank, except on the Novartis Campus in Basel. Here British architect David Chipperfield has designed a laboratory building with an open spatial structure which takes into account the latest concepts in laboratory technology and interdisciplinary collaboration and is aesthetically impressive in appearance.

Sou Fujimoto – Musashino Art University Museum & Library
INAX, Tokyo 2010
ISBN 978 4 87275 164 2
€ 33.40 — Idea Code 10462
Sou Fujimoto is fast becoming a contemporary icon of Japanese architecture. The university library is Fujimoto’s largest building to date, and his first major institutional project. The library’s users criticised Fujimoto’s original concept for lacking functionality. This led to an improved re-design that delighted Fujimoto himself. The tranquillity and clarity with which Fujimoto completed his “forest of books” is captured perfectly by photographers Daici Ano, Naoki Ishikawa and Keiko Sasaoka. 64 p, ills colour & bw, 26 x 32 cm, pb, Japanese/English

You Can’t Change China, China Changes You
010, Rotterdam 2011
ISBN 978 90 6450 762 5
€ 24.50 — Idea Code not set

Architect John van de Water set off in 2004 to a China that was modernizing at a furious pace. His intention was to put the European, conceptual way of thinking of ‘NEXT architects’ into practice in China. Five turbulent years ensued, with projects being built on Chinese soil. ‘You Can’t Change China, China Changes You’ is a personal reflection of his experience.

€ 24.50 — Idea Code not set

The existing building of the NHL University, designed by the architect Abe Bonnema and dating from 1984, is an amorphous presence with its small-scale combination of building masses. Architectuurstudio hh (Herman Hertzberger) expanded it with a new building of the same size, leaving Bonnema’s building intact. The new enfolds the existing on all sides as an inclusive framework, like the frame of a picture.

MONU 13: Most Valuable Urbanism
Board Publishers, Rotterdam 2010
ISSN 1860 3211
€ 12.50 — Idea Code 10548
Issue 13 of this bi-annual forum on urbanism gathers the visions of architects, writers, artists and designers on a general theme of cities’ livability. The phenomenon of city branding on T-shirts and exposés of quality-of-life indexes are joined by such outbursts as ‘The Value of Ugliness’ by Jürgen Krusche and ‘Vancouverism Is Everywhere’ by DoUC.

Realities: United — Featuring
Ruby Press, Berlin 2010
ISBN 978 3 9813436 3 2
€ 43.00 — Idea Code 11041
Berlin-based brothers Jan and Tim Edler have gained fame for their artistic interventions to cutting edge architecture around the world. They often work with lighting and engineering systems, imposing them onto the existing facades and spaces of celebrated buildings. The pair is considered leaders of a contemporary trend where sculpture and media art are of more architectural importance than function. Most of their work involved a radical dialogue with renowned architects.

Re-inventing Construction
Ruby Press, Berlin 2010
ISBN 978 3 9813436 2 5
€ 48.00 — Idea Code 10623

‘Re-inventing Construction’ goes off the beaten track of the building-as-usual, revealing a staggering potential of available alternatives in construction techniques, building materials, building typologies, and development models. In doing so the book introduces new inventions from current research as well as ‘old’ inventions from the rich history of construction, which have either been forgotten or consciously ignored in the name of industrial progress.

Christoph Merian Verlag, Basel 2011
ISBN 978 3 85616 521 5
€ 12.90 — Idea Code 11038

Anna Viebrock, stage-set designer, costume designer and stage director, has exerted a great influence on contemporary stage set design. She combines elements of reality in her sets in such a way which makes them seem surreal. The sources of her inspiration are buildings and interiors of past decades which Viebrock documents on her broad travels. Her design process from the photographs to the final stage set is illustrated by means of 16 selected productions.

Too Much is a new magazine about cities. International writers and photographers join a Japanese design team to examine the urban environment, its changes and challenges; its romantic geography. For all those who care about architecture, design, globalization and the future of the shared landscape. With contributions from photographer Taro Hirano, film director Mike Mills, stylist Nicola Formichetti and an extensive interview with SANAA.

The global phenomenon of aging populations, buildings and cities in the 21st century presents a staggering challenge to a world fixated on the new and the young. This includes both the acceptance of the elderly, as a group brimming with untapped potential and the opposing perspective, that we should do away with aging altogether. ‘Volume’ explores the spatial implications of aging, and challenges designers to introduce a long life as core to their thinking.

This publication charts the evolution and making of 'Exposure' by Antony Gormley: one of the most complex and ambitious contemporary sculptures ever attempted in Europe. In a series of informative and challenging texts accompanied by evocative photographs the role of art as a diagnostic instrument is fully charted. Both the landscape of the reclaimed province Flevoland, and the sculpture itself are investigated and illuminated.

This is a collection of sculptures fashioned in clay through which the artist invites viewers to ponder concepts such as authorship, authenticity and the values of artistic creations. 'En Face' consists of a set of 72 busts made of clay, the result of an interactive performance carried out in Turk's studio, where a group of people handled the wet clay of 72 busts portraying the artist, until they transformed it into a classic self-portrait.

Yoshitomo Nara — Ceramic Works
Foil, Tokyo 2010
ISBN 978 4 902943 57 3
€ 42.50 — Idea Code 10424
Nara is renowned for his love of Manga and Pop Art, yet a 2007 residency in Shigaraki — a centre of Japanese ceramics — led him to an unexpected new medium: clay. Hand-painted and made with traditional pottery wheels, these bowls, vases and plates form a break with the past. Irreverent eyes, faces and texts are everywhere, epitomising Nara’s key contrasts of innocence and malice, playfulness and hostility.

Isamu Noguchi Foundation, Takamatsu
2009
ISBN 978 4 568 12077 6
€ 82.25 — Idea Code 10398
“All things worthwhile must end as gifts. What other reason is there for art?” With this 1983 quote, Noguchi opens this monograph devoted to one of the sculptor’s greatest gifts: the garden museum on the island of Shikoku, where Noguchi lived and worked for 25 years. Preceded by a selection of elegant quotes, these large-scale photographs of Noguchi’s sculptures and fertile spaces explore his former studio and refuge, and reveal why this dazzling environment is preserved for education and charity.

Lebowski, Amsterdam 2010
ISBN 978 90 488 0705 5
€ 19.90 — Idea Code 10509
Alexandre Farto is a 22-year-old Portuguese artist who is fascinated by the destructive effects of time on humans and nature. His work consists of chillingly beautiful portraits of mostly “unknown faces” (vagrants, elderly, eccentrics) and collages of urban apartments (painted with paint and bleach then drilled in to the walls of abandoned buildings and houses). ‘Selected Works 2005-2010’ is a tribute to a great talent, designed by Luis Cruz.

Originally a painter, Sammy Engramer became interested in sculpture and the objects he stages in exhibition spaces are an aesthetic experience in a context of political and commercial issues. Heir to Marcel Broodthaers, he explores the relations between art, discourse and object. Engramer also belongs to the Laura Group, a casual movement that seeks to “make visible the mechanisms of the value chain in art”. 128 p, ills colour & bw, 22 x 29 cm, pb, French/English
Craigie Horsfield — Confluence and Consequence
Ludion, Antwerp 2010
ISBN 978 90 5544 832 6
€ 39.90 — Idea Code 10465
Turner Prize nominee Horsfield is known for his photographs. In ‘Confluence and Consequence’ his photography is juxtaposed with a more recent development in his work; tapestries made in collaboration with a Flemish textile factory. Horsfield’s translation of photographic images and cartoons into woven textiles plays with time and tradition. Exhibition and book capture the research behind this process, and the interplay between these modern and ancient media.

- The Spectacular of Vernacular: 'The Spectacular of Vernacular' addresses the role of vernacular forms in the work of 26 artists who use craft, folklore and roadside kitsch to explore the role of culturally specific iconography in the increasingly global world of art. Drawing inspiration from such sources as local architecture, amateur photographs and state fair banners, their work runs the spectrum from the sleek to the handicrafted.

Community Art — The Politics of Trespassing
Valiz, Amsterdam 2011
ISBN 978 90 78088 50 9
€ 19.90 — Idea Code not set
In ‘Community Art’, artists, theorists and cultural politicians employ diverse modes of thinking and writing to explore the practices and concepts of artistic and social movements in western and non-western societies. This book does not offer a cut-and-dried theoretical model but presents a reformulation of the basic concepts of art, community and society and the ways they interact. 388 p, ills bw, 14 x 21 cm, pb, English

The Shadowfiles
De Appel, Amsterdam 2010
ISBN 978 90 73501 74 4
€ 15.00 — Idea Code 10610
The series ‘The Shadowfiles’ aims to make the undercurrent of (hidden) ideas and desires, thoughts and texts, which for de Appel functions like a permanent source of energy, accessible. Alongside the range of public activities that an arts centre realises, there’s a plethora of work that is not shown — and often not meant to be. ‘The Shadowfiles’ aims to capture this “shadow side” of de Appel’s activities and will appear once a year. 124 p, ills colour & bw, 17 x 23 cm, pb, Dutch/English

Published in 1945, Alexey Brodovitch’s Ballet is one of the most legendary photobooks of the 20th century, only printed in a small printrun of a few hundred copies. Brodovitch began photographing the Ballets Russes de Monte Carlo in the mid-1930s on 35 mm film. His images radically disregard conventions of “good” technique; blurred and fast-paced they capture the spirit of dance.

German-Russian artist Kissina, a graduate of the Academy of Fine Arts Munich, developed the practice of ‘Performance Photography’ in the 1990s. This book presents a simpler, starker version of Kissina’s talents; photographs of pedestrians with their shadow foremost, taken from her balcony in Berlin, in summer and between 4:30 and 6:00pm. The result is a fantasy landscape of distortions, configurations, human and inhuman figures, sometimes funny, always fascinating.

Tehran-born director Kiarostami is acclaimed for his poetic documentary-style films. In addition to the films that have brought him fame, Kiarostami has produced photography, paintings and graphic design. ‘Snow White’ collects snow-scene photographs taken from 1978 to 2004. These black and white images of deep drifts, dogs and bare trees on snowy hillsides all epitomize the simplicity of Kiarostami’s introduction: “On a snowy morning I run out, hatless and coatless, happy as a child.”

ISBN 978 2 8499 5196 5
€ 30.10 — Idea Code 10574
War and peace, tenderness and violence go hand in hand in Sarah Caron’s photo essay on modern Pakistan. Guns are waved in border showdowns and women weep over bloody corpses while urban life glitters with the flashiness of weddings and fashion parties. She captures the different faces of a volatile country with sensitivity and compassion, combining the photojournalism of Robert Capa with the dense colours and clarity of today.

The spirit of Hans Bellmer lives in the twenty first century in Kooiker’s monograph ‘Sunday’. These limpid outdoor photographs capture a naked fat woman wearing high heels, her white body so bleached that her genitalia are invisible, rendering her doll-like. She poses, faceless, in positions that are sometimes sexual, sometimes motionless and morbid. Around her is a back garden, with a homemade dais for her to pose on, and views of dark trees and bushes with blood-red leaves.

For 2½ years Rico Scagliola and Michael Meier took pictures and filmed teenagers, creating an archive of photographs and videos. Teenagers today are the first generation to grow up with the picture-worlds of the Internet. They learn at a young age how to present themselves in pictures. Meier and Scagliola use the young people’s visual sophistication and skilled self-presentation, integrating the projected pictures and fantasies into their own cosmos of images.

In his title essay, García-Alix writes passionately of Formentera, the island which has played such a pivotal role in his life and work; a treasured place where he has loved, lost and found himself. As always with García-Alix’s images, the apparent freedom and hedonism of the friends, locals and lovers he photographs is blended with an atmosphere of sadness and vulnerability.

La Fábrica, Madrid 2010
ISBN 978 84 9284 133 2
€ 69.75 — Idea Code 10528
During the summer of 1981 in New York, pop artist Andy Warhol and photographer Christopher Makos visited an elegant wig shop and purchased 7 wigs. Their goal was to make a project they called ‘Altered Image’, a long series of portraits in which Andy Warhol is the model. The transgressive genre of the 1980s clashes with the spirit of Man Ray’s project titled ‘Rrose Sélavy’ in which he photographed Marcel Duchamp dressed as a Parisian lady in the 1920s.

Christopher Makos — Lady Warhol
La Fábrica, Madrid 2010
ISBN 978 84 9284 133 2
€ 69.75 — Idea Code 10528
During the summer of 1981 in New York, pop artist Andy Warhol and photographer Christopher Makos visited an elegant wig shop and purchased 7 wigs. Their goal was to make a project they called ‘Altered Image’, a long series of portraits in which Andy Warhol is the model. The transgressive genre of the 1980s clashes with the spirit of Man Ray’s project titled ‘Rrose Sélavy’ in which he photographed Marcel Duchamp dressed as a Parisian lady in the 1920s.

Gerrit Rietveld Academy Photography Department 2010
Rietveld Academie, Amsterdam 2010
ISBN 978 90 9025518 7
€20.00 — Idea Code 10425
Published to accompany the photography department’s final exam exhibition, this book presents the work of 11 Rietveld Academy alumni. The photographers themselves explored the book’s almost textless double-page concept, with its “possibilities and impossibilities”. The result is an enigmatic and striking portfolio. 68 p, ills colour, 23 x 32 cm, pb, English
As a politically engaged graphic designer Gerd Arntz portrayed the world in wood and linoleum cuts. During the 1920s, he conveyed his vision on social wrongs and the rise of Nazism in Germany in his prints. He did this in a simple, direct style. Together with Otto Neurath he designed the symbols for the ‘International System Of Typographic Picture Education’ (ISOTYPE). This book displays many Isotypes and explains the system and its context, and gives an overview of Arntz’s life and work.

Anthon Beeke is without doubt the most graphic of the Dutch graphic designers. Beeke’s work is a playful if often bruising revolt against all possible forms of official culture. Underlying it is his affinity and involvement with Fluxus, Provo and other maverick cultural activities in the 1960s. Yet it was the 70s and beyond, that proved the most fertile climate for Beeke’s off-beat militancy. The form Beeke gives his creations wells from his eternal curiosity as to the intentions, meaning and impact of the message each is to convey.

Winners of the Dutch Design Award, and lauded art directors of the 11th International Architecture Biennale, Thonik’s leading edge graphics are also familiar to everyday residents of the Netherlands. Their branding for Dutch museums, the Socialist Party and the City of Amsterdam are well-known and successful examples of the crystalline graphic style that has also won Thonik such admiration in Japan.

For an artist like Raphaël Zarka, skateboarding is above all a question of forms. Forms of rest, forms of movement, they subtly extend throughout the entire history of art and science, from Galileo to Robert Morris. Urban architecture, but also skatepark obstacles, strangely echoes those forms. Zarka’s essays participate in a kind of fantastic archaeology; in their way, they expand his sculptural and photographic practice. 160 p, ills bw, 13 x 21 cm, pb, English
